

SMOKE RINGS

While sustainable energy has become increasingly important in media and politics, the understanding of the issue itself is still very abstract. Does anybody know what a ton of CO₂ looks like? We propose a simple modification to the smokestack which will allow it to puff smoke rings whenever 1 ton of fossil CO₂ is released. These will serve a communicative function as a gentle reminder of the impact of consumption.