

WORK & PLAY

Nowadays it's not easy for parents to reconcile job and family. Children cannot stay unattended for a long time, parents cannot focus on their work without distraction, the social network is missing and it's generally hard to find back to their jobs after a baby break. You feel interested? Here's a new way of having children and being at work at the same time. The „Work & Play Station“ in the city of Mannheim is a place, where you can connect both. In several playstations, children can play in groups and are taken care of by advisors. At the same time parents have the possibility to hold down their jobs in workstations. In addition to this, common rooms allow the interaction between children and their parents.
